

Join the Indian revolution and head for the hills.

Time was when you didn't own a motorcycle unless it was an Indian. Well, those times are back. With one difference...modern engineering techniques make the new breed of Indian trail-blazers even better than before.

Fact is, more and more bike enthusiasts are switching over to the new Indian lightweight street/trail machines. And with good reason.

You see, whether it's the full sized lightweight machine or our champion minicycles, at Indian we make only one quality...the best! It's a difference you can actually see when you compare an Indian with other street/trail motorcycles.

For instance, all the Indians have advanced features such as floating rear brakes, cushion drive hub, wide tread tires, triple laced rims, convenient controls with finger tip adjustment and quick release throttle cable, horizontal and vertical adjustable foot pegs, full cradle competition frame, and adjustable hydraulic suspension system. Add to this a choice of 125cc, 100cc and 75cc engines and you know there's an Indian revolution going on.

So before you head for the hills, plan a trip to your Indian Dealer and make it a family affair.

It's American as all outdoors.
